BEATEN PREMIER MAY BE RETURNED TO POWER IN PARIS

Commons Told of British Intention To Pay But Chamberlain Says It's Not a Return to Pre-Moratorium Basis.

BELGIAN PREMIER IS REAPPOINTED

Italy Meets Obligation,
Poland Is Undecided and France and Belgium
Hold to Default Plan.

By the Associated Press.

England, America's largest European debtor, has decided to pay in gold the debt installment due today. It is already paid, France and Belgium have decided not to pay and Poland has indicated that she will default.

In London the chancellor of the exchequer told parliament that this payment was unthinkable, that arrangements have been made with the federal reserve bank to meet it, but that this device was not to be interpreted as meaning a return to the debt system in operation before the Hoover moratorium.

France was without a government, Premier Herriot having been overthrown by the chamber of deputies. He sent word to Washington that he can carry on only current affairs now and that it will be up to the next government to continue the debt negotiations. Herriot is favored to be recalled as premier.

At Rome there was an announcement that Italy already has paid the $1,245,437 interest installment she owed.

In Brussels a new government was in the process of formation by Count De Broqueville, who resigned as premier after the cabinet had decided unanimously to refuse payment of the $2,125,000 installment.

The Polish embassy at Washington indicated Poland would default in a statement expressing regret that no solution of the question satisfactory to Poland and the United States had been reached. Embassy attaches said that "unquestionably Poland cannot pay."

Meantime Germany is merely an on-looker. A government spokesman said that since it is impossible to return to the Young plan anyway, it matters little to Germany what happens as a consequence of the French refusal to pay.

There was an announcement at Frankfurt that the powers which participated in the Lausanne conference had granted a three-month extension on the eastern reparations moratorium.

There was no comment from the state department at Washington on the French refusal to pay, but several members of congress expressed indignation at the attitude of the French chamber of deputies.

MONEY FOR CHRISTMAS

Legion Post Asks Bar On Professor Einstein

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 14.—(P)—Exclusion of Professor Albert Einstein, German scientist, from the United States, was requested unanimously by Syracuse Post 41, American Legion tonight.

A resolution to that effect will be drafted for forwarding to Dr. George J. Lawrence, state commander, and the state executive committee. The move was launched by the Americanism committee of the post.

The resolution, leaders said, will declare that Einstein displayed communist tendencies during his last visit to the United States.

CAPITAL AROUSED BY FRENCH ACTION ON OBLIGATIONS

Minnesota Representative Sponsors Move To Retaliate by Blow at Sale of Securities.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(P)—A chorus of denunciation and a threat of punitive action issued from congress today in response to the French parliament's decision not to pay its war debt installment, but the state department, in complete silence, waited tomorrow's deadline for remittances.

Meanwhile, a Belgian note giving notice that default of its $2,125,000 payment could be expected was made public by the state department and a Polish embassy statement indicated that country would not pay its installment.

Senators and representative in quick succession gave vent to their feelings with remarks about ingratitude and lack of wisdom on the part of France. This sentiment was climaxed late in the day by action of the senate.

Representative Kautson (Republican, Minnesota) put before the house a resolution which would forbid entry into the United States of securities issued by governments that have defaulted on their debt payments; prohibit their advertisement for sale, and bar the securities from the mails.

Indications were lacking as to whether this or any similar proposal would be advanced any further.

At the state department, Secretary Stimson discussed Belgium's decision not to pay the $2,125,000 due tomorrow, with that country's ambassador, Paul May. What Stimson told him was not disclosed.

One result of the French default expected here is that pending negotiations for a special treaty that country will come to a standstill. For some time the United States has felt France has discriminated against American exporters in the administration of tariff quotas and regulations.

There was today no expectation that the United States would, at this time, impose retaliatory tariffs, but France was definitely regarded both in official executive and congressional quarters as isolated by the parliamentary action.

At the treasury everything was in readiness for acceptance of the payments which are to be made, including the largest amount due, Great Britain's $35,550,000. Italy, Czechoslovakia and Latvia already have announced they will pay.

Still Seized, 2 Jailed In Highland Ave. Raid

Told by a coal wagon driver that he had been warned to keep away, police Wednesday night raided 436 North Highland avenue and found a gas-operated still, 55 gallons of whisky, 30 six-gallon barrels of rye mash and a quantity of corks, according to police reports.

A. A. Hard, 35, who attempted to dive through a trap door and escape through the basement, and a negro helper, Will Harris, 27, of the rear of 3123 Highland, were seized and held for $1,000 bond each. The windows of the house were sealed with cloth and plaster of paris to keep light from escaping, police said. The raid was conducted by City Officers Bill Holland and C. C. Davies.

Stock List Moves Forward Despite French Debt Default

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(P)—Wall Street accepted calmly today the default of the French chamber of deputies to default the war debt payment due tomorrow.

The stock market, after early hesitation, actually turned strong in the afternoon dealing, and several prominent shares recorded advances of $1 to $3.

Great Britain's decision to pay its debt installment due tomorrow occasioned considerable favorable comment in Wall Street banking and brokerage quarters, and the pound sterling advanced 3-4 of a cent to $3.28 1/2, for cable transfers. British government bonds were steady.

RELIEF PROMISED AS SOUTH BATTLES SWOLLEN RIVERS

Meteorologist Says Rains
Will End by This Morning; Flood Troubles Are

Relief from rains which have driven southeastern rivers to flood-stage was promised Wednesday by the United States weather bureau as citizens of Rome fought a rising Oostanaula, flood menaced the Yazoo-Mississippi delta and Alabama rivers surged over their banks.

"The worst seems to be over," said George W. Mindling, Atlanta meteorologist. "North Georgia's flood troubles are about at an end, as the rain will stop by Thursday morning under the influence of a high pressure area coming in from Idaho."

In Vicksburg, Miss., R. T. Lindley, meteorologist, issued flood warnings for the Yazoo and Tallahatchie rivers. The Coosa river gave Alabama its chief concern, and the Alabama river was reported rising at Montgomery.

Chairman T. B. Owen, of the Rome city commission, estimated that 20 per cent of Rome's total area was under water ranging from an inch to three feet deep. The Oostanaula, running parallel with Rome's principal street two blocks away, reached a stage of 32 feet at the Five corners bridge, and was only a few feet from the floor of the bridge connecting the western sections. The river was still rising slowly at Rome and at Resaca.

Relief workers said that approximately 500 persons were affected in Rome. Water was standing in the streets of the lowlands in the western part of the city. Major C. J. Matthews, of Fort McPherson, said that 200 blankets and 100 coats have been made available by the army for the homeless at Rome.

Influenza attacked more than 100 of the persons forced to leave their homes, according to Dr. W. H. Lewis, a Vicksburg physician. Dr. F. Quigg closed the Rome city schools at noon Wednesday, many students being unable to reach the buildings and one of the schools being surrounded by water.

One hundred and sixty-five persons in Rome were being cared for by the American Legion and the Salvation Army. They were being fed beef stew, army style, and many were taken care of in a 16-room house. The last big flood in Rome was in 1916, when the river went to 34.4 feet. The all-time record was set in 1886, with a high of 45 feet.

The Rome railroad was covered with four or five feet of water in several places. The morning train Wednesday came in through several feet of water at Dyke's creek. The coaches were sidetracked and the crew rescued. The train is now being carried by express in being carried to Rome.

GY HEADS LAUD NEW SEWER PLAN

Immediate start on a sewer improvement program through cooperation of the city and Fulton county, as suggested Wednesday by Walter C. Hendrix, chairman of the Fulton county public works committee, received the endorsement of Acting Mayor J. Charlie Murphy and Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, slated as chairman of the 1933 finance committee of council.

Under the Hendrix proposal, trunk line sewers can be laid in accordance with plans promulgated by Whitman, Requaert & Smith, nationally recognized sanitary experts of Baltimore, for $7,500 per mile, according to estimates.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(P)—United States three gaming principles, representatives of organized agriculture carried to the capitol today a demand for immediate relief of the farmer through enactment of the voluntary domestic allotment plan.

Leaders of the groups crowded into the house agriculture committee's room to hear their designed spokesman, Frederick T. Lee, outline the agreement after two days and nights of conferences.

Source organizations as the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Farm Grange, the Farmers Union, the Farmers National Live Stock Association, the American Cotton Cooperative Association were represented.

"We are in unanimous agreement on certain fundamental principles," Lee testified. "They are: That the legislation in question should be administered by the department of agriculture; that it should cover the four basic commodities—wheat, cotton, tobacco and hogs, and that the committee should frame legislation to the end of giving these agricultural commodities their pre-war parity with other commodity prices."

The first two of these were embodied in the domestic allotment draft

Ten Opportunities Far Short As Half-Way Point Is Reached

Opportunity No. 4 Is "Adopted" by Group of Women, But Only $100 Is Subscribed for Nine Other Families.

BY ROY ROBERT.

Five Opportunities offered—the half-way mark reached—and only a fraction of the amount needed to care for Atlanta's ten neediest families subscribed.

That was the disappointing result faced by the Ten Opportunities editor Wednesday night as a check-up of subscriptions was made. Only a total of $340 subscribed to care for five families of excellent folk throughout 1933.

Despite the disappointment of the total, Wednesday brought encouragement when a group of women who wish to remain anonymous subscribed to care for Opportunity No. 4. Five other contributions for a total of $33 brought the cash subscriptions to date to $100.

They were from: Atlanta Vacant Chair Circle, $10; Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Fairlie, $10; J. P. Oliver, $5; Cash, $5; T. J. Lawler, $5.

Total, $333. Despite the encouragement offered when the group of women "adopted" Opportunity No. 4, which was printed Wednesday morning, there was the positive showing that a more generous response must be made if the ten neediest families in the city are to be cared for during next year. As laudable as a mere Christmas gift might be, more than that will be required to care for these families.

In every instance they are weak-

FARMERS INDORSE ALLOTMENT PLAN

Program Presented With Demand for Immediate Action by Congress.

$150,000,000 SEEN BY MILLS AS YIELD FROM BEER LEVY

Committee Prepares To Frame Modification Bill
After Drys Take Last
Shot at Plans.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(P)—Denied the administration's official views on beer and confronted by Secretary Mills' demand for a sales tax to balance the budget, the house ways and means committee prepared today to formulate a bill to modify the Volstead law.

Repeated efforts by committee members to extract from the cabinet officer any indication as to whether President Hoover would sign a bill to legalize beer ended futilely in the most spectacular and heated session of the treasury chief's staff.

Drawing freely upon his oratorical ability, Mills declared the beer measure, if enacted, would not alone balance the budget and estimated revenue from it would be between $125,000,000 and $150,000,000 the first year, as compared with estimates of other witnesses that it would exceed $200,000,000.

Surrounded by the biggest crowd that has gathered into the large committee room at these hearings and with the beams of flood lights set up by cameramen shining on his ruddy face, the treasury chief pleaded for enactment at this session of a "non-partisan" program to provide enough revenue to meet federal expenditures.

"The time has come to bring the federal budget into balance in the sense that there will be no further increase in the public debt," Mills said in asserting that a general sales tax levy was the only means of accomplishing this purpose that he knew of.

At the conclusion of his formal statement Mills was asked by Representative Rainey, of Illinois, democratic floor leader, to sign the bill.

"Will President Hoover sign the bill?" "Oh, Mr. Rainey, you know no one speaks for the president," the secretary replied.

"Do you favor the bill?" "I am not here to present the president's views," he replied. "I am not here to express my personal opinion." He said he was present to discuss only the revenue phase of the legislation and not to pass on its social or constitutional questions.

Mills' testimony and examination consumed the entire morning session during which he engaged in several sharp exchanges with Rainey and other members of the committee over the administration's support of the levy defeated in the house last spring.

TALMADGE TO ASK HIGHWAY CONTROL

Gives Indication, in Speech, He Will Seek Reorganization of Board.

Strong indication that he will ask for complete reorganization of the state highway department to place it under control of the chief executive was given Wednesday by Governor-elect Eugene Talmadge.

Speaking at the Atlanta Masonic Club at its weekly luncheon meeting at the Wincoff hotel, the governor-elect asserted that he is of the opinion that "the highway department should be under the thumb of the governor of the state."

"I have given the highway department matter thorough thought," he asserted. "The highway department heretofore always has been bigger than the governor of the state."

Continuing his discussion, the governor-elect said that he had made a study of the operations of highway departments in other states and had

Colder and Drier Weather Is Promised Atlanta Today

An area of high pressure, wandering into Georgia from the north, this morning will bring colder and drier weather, George W. Mindling, United States meteorologist, said Wednesday.

Estranged Wife Defies Hubby To Put Her Out

CLEARWATER, Fla., Dec. 14.—(P)—Defying anyone to put her out, Mrs. E. C. Price, estranged wife of E. C. Price, reputedly wealthy Chicago and Clearwater manufacturer, today had possession of his home, although on orders from Price at Chicago the lights and water were turned off.

Price established a claim to a divorce here Wednesday on grounds of extreme mental cruelty, but Circuit Judge John U. Bird was called away before he signed the decree.

Through his attorney, Price yesterday obtained an injunction restraining Mrs. Price from entering his house or removing any goods from it, but when it was executed she already had moved in and as the injunction was not retroactive, it did not force her to vacate.

DEMOCRATS BLOCK LATE APPOINTEES NAMED BY HOOVER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(P)—Senate democrats successfully raised their promised barrier against the confirmation of President Hoover's appointees today and then dropped it enough to permit approval of Rex D. Chapin, of Michigan, as secretary of commerce.

Chapin, of course, goes out on March 4 with the Hoover cabinet. Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, explained that appointees who would serve beyond that time would not be considered.

The sweeping democratic ban extends to democrats as well as republicans named by Mr. Hoover, including Atlee Pomeroy, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and Representative Crisp, of Georgia, named to the tariff commission.

Robinson spoke with authority. The senate, by a vote of 44 to 37, had just rejected the motion of Senator McNary, of Oregon, assistant republican leader, that the senate go into executive session for consideration of nominations.

This roll call was believed to end the issue. The test showed the senate divided almost evenly on party lines. Democrats voted solidly against the executive session. Senators La Follette and Blaine, of Wisconsin, republicans, voted with the democrats. La Follette stated that his vote was based on the fact that he regarded it as a "waste of time" for the senate to try and confirm the nominations of the announced democratic opposition.

Other senate republican independents who had supported Governor Roosevelt in the campaign voted with the republicans for the executive session. This group included Senators Johnson, of California, and Cutting, of New Mexico. Senator Norris was not present. Senator La Follette announced that Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, who was absent, would have voted against the executive session.

Senator Robinson reminded the republicans that they set the precedent for blocking the nomination of a retiring president by such action in 1920 after President Harding was elected to succeed Woodrow Wilson.

Bandit's Sweetheart Tries To End Her Life

Suicide at the grave of Fred Tribble, who was killed Saturday night in an attempted holdup of a grocery store, was tried late Wednesday afternoon by the New York chief of police, Miss Jane Grant, 24, of 1324 Lakewood avenue, according to police reports. Miss Grant is in Grady hospital in a serious condition from poisoning, it was said.

Miss Grant told Hospital Patrolman J. B. Harper that she had known Tribble for a month, and took the poison because of his death. She has been a dancer at Garber hall, she said. She was brought to Grady in the hospital's ambulance from Hollywood cemetery, where Tribble was buried.

FUGITIVE HUNTED FOR TWO YEARS

Judge Stanley Says Georgia Will Do Utmost To Make Burns Complete His Sentence.

Robert Elliott Burns, author of "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang," was arrested early Thursday morning by police in Newark, N. J., on a charge of being a fugitive from justice, according to dispatches from that city.

He was taken to the office of Police Chief McReilly, in Newark, fingerprinted and questioned. He had been living for some time in East Orange, it was said.

Charles Handler, attorney for the fugitive from the Georgia gang, visiting police headquarters before the prisoner was jailed at Newark for the night. He said he would fight extradition.

What action Governor A. H. H. Moore will take in the case is problematical. The New Jersey chief executive received Burns at the Little White House in Sea Girt last summer and promised to help him if the occasion arose.

Burns is reported, after his second escape from Georgia, to have made his way north and to have held various jobs in New Jersey. He was a reporter on a Newark newspaper for a short time but the paper halted publication. Then he was a dynamiter in a copper refinery at Chrome, N. J., and later worked in a brick yard.

Judge Vivian L. Stanley, member of the prison commission, said Thursday morning that Georgia would do everything within the power of the state to bring Burns back to complete his sentence.

Informed of Governor Moore's agreement to help Burns, Judge Stanley said: "Well he has that much power."

Judge Stanley said that the commission would forward a requisition to New Jersey officials at once for Burns and engage counsel in that state to fight for returning the prisoner here.

Although a nation-wide hunt has been waged, Judge Stanley expressed surprise the Burns had been arrested in Newark.

"I sent a picture of Burns and his fingerprints to the Newark chief of police about two weeks ago but only this afternoon I exchanged several wires with New Orleans authorities. I was more or less confident he had been arrested there."

Within the last month, Burns' Continued in Page 8, Column 1.

Adams Says Farm Production Must Balance Consumption

Commissioner-Elect Points Out Root of Agricultural Woes in Speech at Augusta.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 14.—(AP)—G. C. Adams, state commissioner of agriculture-elect, told an executive session of farm agents and others interested in agriculture here today that some way must be found of balancing production and consumption of farm products.

Those in attendance at the conference announced that their findings would be announced upon termination of the session.

Establishment of industries using agricultural products and encouraging dairying were under consideration. Those in attendance included: Mrs. Adams, President Bright, McConnell, of the Georgia County Agents Association; S. D. Truitt, of Atlanta; Jack Hart, of Dublin; D. E. Krumwiede, of Louisville; Charles P. Stewart, of Warley; D. A. Johnson and W. S. Brown, district farm agents; Harry Brown, assistant extension director; and L. C. Watson, Athens.

B. M. Drake, secretary of the agents' association, was prevented from reaching here by high water near Monticello.

Adams said: "I know something of the deplorable condition of the farmer, having been into every section of the state during the summer. There is no phase of agriculture but is at a low ebb."

"We must find some way to balance production and consumption. As long as one truck load of produce more than is needed goes into the city, all is off in the way of profit. We must work out some way through the bureau of markets, the extension department of the College of Agriculture and all other farm forces a plan to supply just the needs of the consumer. We must have a better understanding of the relation between the producer and the consumer."

"The producer must learn that it does not profit him to crowd his products on the market when the market is already supplied. It is better to let his produce rot in the field than on the curb in Atlanta."

It appears to me that if the price of cotton remains at 5 cents to 7 cents we will need to shift from growing it to other industries. I think the dairy business should be come a great Georgia industry; and along with it hog and chicken raising on the whey. In every grocery store in the state we find canned milk, cheese and butter from Wisconsin and New York. I think all this should be produced in our state. If some of the milk was made into cheese the other milk would bring a better price."

"All agencies of the state must pull together to rebuild agriculture in the state."

ELECTRIC PRODUCTION SHOWS GAIN IN WEEK

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Electric power production statistics showed some improvement last week.

The National Electric Light Association reported today that output for the week ended December 10 totaled 1,518,922,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of about 8,000,000, whereas a year ago virtually no gain had been registered. SALES TAX ADVOCATED TO EASE REALTY LOAD

Harris County Member Declares Real Estate Can No Longer Pay Taxes.

CHILEY, Ga., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Henry C. Kimbrough, representative of Harris county in the state legislature, says he is in favor of a general sales tax in Georgia to "relieve real estate of its heavy burden of taxation." Real estate in the rural sections, he said, "cannot pay the taxes, and especially at a time when they do not make anything on the farms."

"It was against the sales tax we had, but it didn't hurt anybody and helped a lot. I have come to believe that a sales tax is the least burdensome of all taxes. And I might add that the kind of sales tax we had in Georgia recently made certain exemptions, one, for example of $30,000 on yearly sales. And even it brought in quite a lot of money. I am in favor of taking off all ad valorem taxes."

Mr. Kimbrough said the state highway board's policy of helping counties take care of the roads would help the local governments considerably.

Separated by Immigration Laws, Savannah Family Reunited Again

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 14.—The happiest family in Georgia this Christmas season is that of Earnest Olsen. This family consists of Mr. and Mrs. Olsen and their little daughter, now slightly more than 4 years of age. The husband and father has just been restored to the arms of his wife and his little girl after having spent more than two years in Norway as a deported immigrant.

Mr. Olsen came to the United States as a youth and lived here for a number of years. He met an American girl and married her. They had one child, a little girl. Then some immigration authority "made the discovery" that Olsen had no right to be in this country. He was deported after a hard fight to show that he should be allowed to remain. His wife and child were not allowed to go to Norway with him.

Thursday, there came into port a ship from a Norwegian port. At the dock to meet it were Mrs. Olsen and her little girl. They were radiantly happy for the husband and father were coming back to them. The immigration laws had either been so amended or so interpreted that it was decided by the authorities in the United States and in Europe that Olsen could come home again.

The girl had grown from a 15-month-old infant to a "young lady" of 4 years and over. And she was very happy, indeed, to be permitted to greet her daddy and to know he was not going away again.

STATUS OF ROAD WORK TO BE SHOWN AT MEET

COLUMBUS, Ga., Dec. 14.—"It will be stated at the meeting of the Dixie Gulf Coast Highway Association to be held in Richmond on Thursday, beginning at 10:30 a. m., states W. C. Breslin, of Fort Valley, president of the association, who will preside at the meeting, 'that since the association was organized at a meeting held in 1921, of the 283 miles of the Dixie Gulf Coast highway in Georgia, 103 miles were then paved, 90 miles have since been paved, or paving provided, leaving but 90 miles unpaved, part of which is now being constructed.'

"It will also be shown that $116,288,640.02 has been allotted to highway construction by the state highway department since its organization in 1919 to the end of 1931—to which is to be added the 1932 allotment of $1,000,000. The total of this year, and that based on an equal distribution of the above sum between the counties in the state of Georgia, each county would have received more than $800,000, whereas one Dixie Gulf Coast highway county has not received one dollar for paving."

"It will also be stated," continued Mr. Breslin, "that the paving of this highway has been completed in Florida, and more than $1,000,000 worth of bridges have been constructed or provided for that state. A proposal will be made to shorten the route more than 10 miles in Alabama."

The meeting will be held in the Grand Theater building and President Breslin invites all interested persons to be present.

TALMADGE SILENT ON APPOINTMENTS

Selections Made, But
Names Withheld; Rivers
Says Program Is Ready.

Governor-elect Eugene Talmadge announced Wednesday that he had definitely decided on all appointments he is to make at the time of his inauguration but that announcement of the appointments will not be made until he has taken the oath of office.

"I have considered all of the prospects for various places and have made up in my own mind just what I will appoint," the governor-elect said. "However, I think the proper time to make the announcements is when I have been inaugurated and I therefore will not make public any names until after I have taken the oath of office."

Mr. Talmadge said that he had not even informed those he had decided to appoint that they had been chosen for state posts.

Governor-elect Talmadge made it plain that the five assistant attorneys-general who are to be appointed have not been selected. These are chosen jointly between the governor and the attorney-general, but like the others, probably will not be announced until after the new governor's inauguration.

"I am not making this announcement merely to shut out pleas from my friends in behalf of themselves and others," he added. "The jobs actually have been filled and if I thought it proper I'd announce the selections now. I just do not think it proper."

PROGRAM IS READY.

Representative E. D. Rivers, of Lakeland, candidate for speaker of the house of representatives, announced here Wednesday that with 146 members pledged to support his candidacy he had proceeded to prepare for the opening of the legislative session on January 9.

"Because I believe that I will be chosen speaker without difficulty, I have proceeded to make committee arrangements so that we will not lose a moment's time once the gavel is sounded," Mr. Rivers said at the Henry Grady, where headquarters of his speakership campaign have been set up.

"The state is confronted with a dire emergency and no time can be lost. Once I have been elected I am prepared to make known my committee assignments and we can get to work immediately. I plan to introduce a resolution immediately after the convening of the session for the inauguration of Eugene Talmadge on January 10."

Mr. Rivers said that there are some who favor the inaugural being held on the following day, but he believes that the quicker we get things started the more satisfactory the session is going to be.

Rivers added that he believed the committee assignments he would make would be entirely satisfactory. "I personally know most of the members of the house and also know the things they are most capable of and in which they are particularly interested," he said. "I think therefore that the assignments I will make when elected will prove to be good ones not only to the members, but to the state as well."

Rivers' claim of 146 votes is far more than the 103 necessary to elect. Despite his claims of a clear-cut majority, supporters of Representative Ernest M. Davis, of Mitchell county; L. Thomas (Pat) Gillen, of Bibb county; and Marion Allen, of Baldwin county, also are still claiming victory, but by majorities far short of that which Rivers claims.

Boys' Death Notice Lands Man in Tower

Joseph Bingham Brittain, paroled convict from the Atlanta federal penitentiary, Wednesday was held in Fulton tower on a charge of impersonating a federal officer as the result of a fake death notice sent by telegram to his uncle, W. T. Hurt, of Eagleville, Tenn., according to Richard A. Chappell, federal probation officer.

Hurt received a wire signed "R. A. Chappell" informing him that Brittain had died and that $150 was needed for funeral expenses. Chappell said. HOOVER VETO HINTED FOR WATERWAYS AID

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Representative Snell, republican, New York, house minority leader, told newspapermen after a conference with President Hoover today that he felt the president "doubts the advisability of congressional authorization of more funds for rivers and harbors work."

A list of proposed authorizations for waterway improvements, aggregating $78,000,000 and classified as "urgent" was submitted to the house rivers and harbors committee today by the department engineers as the basis for an omnibus rivers and harbors bill. The list was requested by the committee. Chairman Mansfield explained that whether there would be an omnibus bill depended upon the attitude of the republican administration.

CLAYTON JURORS GET CASE TODAY

Testimony Completed in Trial of Fire Captain in Brother's Death.

The case of Captain Roy V. Clayton, veteran member of the fire department, who went on trial in superior court Wednesday for the second time on a charge of murdering his brother, C. C. Clayton, will go to the jury by noon today.

The state and defense closed their evidence shortly before 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and Judge C. F. McLaughlin ordered court recessed until 9 o'clock this morning and on agreement of the attorneys limited the time for presentation of arguments to an hour and a half for each side. The jury was sent to a hotel for the night.

The evidence produced at the trial Wednesday was similar to that presented in the first trial of Clayton, which resulted in a locked jury. The prosecution presented witnesses who testified as to fights between the two brothers, and the defense based its fight solely on the sworn statement of the defendant.

Clayton denied fighting with his brother and said that the latter fell down at his home and struck his head on the stairs while intoxicated. The widow of C. C. Clayton was called to the witness stand in rebuttal by the state. She testified that Roy Clayton

Jugoslavian 'Outrage'
Arouses Ire of Il Duce

ROME, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Commercial reprisals for acts of "anti-Italian vandalism" in Trau and other Jugoslavian cities, were intimated today by Premier Mussolini in a reply to the senate to an interpellation presented by a number of leading senators.

"Jugoslavia had better not forget that the commercial relations with Italy constitute the most important part of her exports," the premier said.

He added that the "vandalism" provoked the "resentment of every civilized country in the world," and that this was not an isolated instance but a continuous program showing open hostility to Italy and operated on a precise and inspired plan.

Il Duce also told the senate that the Italian minister in Belgrade had protested against the dynamiting in Trau of several statues considered to be relics of the Venetian dominance in Jugoslavia.

Charleston's Scrip Experiment
Pulls City Out of Financial Bog

So successful has been the experience of Charleston, S. C., with scrip issued this year to pull the city out of a financial bog, that its current bills have been paid in full, the city is on a cash basis with a surplus in the bank, the 1932 scrip amounting to $374,720 has been redeemed to the last penny at par and the experiment will be repeated in 1933 under far more favorable circumstances.

A former Atlanta, J. A. Von Dohlen, head of the Von Dohlen Steamship Company and mayor pro tem of Charleston, told in Atlanta Wednesday how a business administration selected by a citizen's committee went into office a year ago, applied the pruning knife to the costs of government and so administered the city's fiscal affairs that it will, on December 31, meet interest coupons promptly for the first time in a generation.

Moreover, Mayor Pro Tem. Von Dohlen explained in an interview here, there will be "further reductions" in the 1933 tax levies on January 1 amounting to approximately 15 per cent—the first time also in a generation that municipal taxes in Charleston have been cut.

Safeguards Around Scrip.

Much of the success in issuing scrip in Charleston, Von Dohlen said, is due to the numerous safeguards which were thrown around it to keep it at par and the setting up, as soon as the new administration took hold, of every dollar that came into the treasury as a reserve to redeem the paper. Of $374,720 issued—over a period of several months—the city, on December 1, had redeemed all but $20,000 and this has been "paid off" after advertisements calling upon holders to redeem it at the city hall had been placed in Charleston newspapers.

When Mayor Bernard R. Maybank, successful cotton operator, and the new administration took over affairs, Von Dohlen said there was no money in the treasury, the city owed $90,000 to merchants on old accounts and, in addition, various interest notes on tax anticipation notes and principal monies were due to bankers.

"The very first thing," Charleston's mayor pro tem, explained, "was to cut the budget $285,000, the mayor beginning by slashing his own salary from $8,000 to $3,000, or 40 per cent. In the lower brackets, though, it was out of the question to cut salaries.

"We next called the various groups together, retail, wholesale and public utility. The retailers agreed to take the scrip from holders to whom it was issued by the city, the wholesalers agreed to take it from the retailers and the public utility companies from the wholesalers.

Paid Half in Scrip.

"The city paid its employees 50 per cent in scrip and 50 per cent in cash. It was issued in denominations of $1, $5 and $10. It was legal tender for all taxes due the city and in payment of water bills. There was nothing back of it except faith in the administration and the city. To keep it at par the mayor issued proclamations and through large display advertisements urged holders not to let it go except at face value. Holders were told that if an attempt was made to 'chisel in' by sharks, to call the mayor's office. There were no such attempts made."

After cutting the budget and issuing its scrip, Charleston's new officials established a purchase and bid committee which, the mayor pro tem, said, has resulted in "enormous savings." A surplus of $225,000 in the treasury now is attributed, in part, to the collection of taxes that have been delinquent four and five years.

Von Dohlen said the new mayor recently summed up the whole situation in a single sentence:

"Charleston has suffered in the past from tax beats who had money but who wouldn't pay because there were no taxes. Now, because of this, this is not true today."

Town's G. O. P. Sheriff
Refuses To Take Post

George Howell, of Hiwassee, made history Wednesday. He actually refused to accept the post of sheriff of Towns county to which he was elected on November 8. And now a special election to name a sheriff will have to be called.

Mr. Howell is a rarity in these days of record length ballots and thousands upon thousands seeking appointive offices.

J. F. Johnson, Towns county clerk, reported to the governor's office Thursday that he planned to call the special election immediately. He said that Mr. Howell, a republican, had been nominated more or less against his will and after his election considered the matter for a month before finally deciding not to take the job.

Temporary Bonding
Of Collectors Asked

Efforts will be made to get temporary bonds for county tax collecting and tax holding officials pending clearing up of a difficulty which has resulted in surety companies refusal to sign these bonds, Governor-elect, Eugene Talmadge announced Wednesday. The announcement was made after a committee of state officials, members of the legislature and county officers had met with representatives of surety companies at the state capital.

The committee authorized the governor-elect to name a committee to draw up remedial legislation to be submitted at the forthcoming session of the legislature. This committee is composed of Senator J. T. Sisk, of the 30th district, and Representatives Ernest M. Davis, of Mitchell county, and J. W. Culpepper, of Fayette county.

HUNTERS DISCOVER
ILL FAMILY LIVING WITH TWO CORPSES

FLORENCE, Ala., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Smoke boiled from the chimney of the Tom Murphy home 22 miles east of here today, while welfare workers nursed the family, three members of whom died, while others lay stricken with influenza and pneumonia.

Destitute, the family was fighting a losing battle with disease and poverty Monday when three hunters stopped to ask directions and discovered their plight.

Dr. W. D. Hubbard, county health officer, answered the call of the hunters and he in turn brought aid from the Child Welfare Bureau.

The physician found on his arrival at the two-room cabin that Mrs. Murphy, 47, and a grandchild, Louise Liles, six months, were dead, and other members of the family were too ill to move the bodies.

L. W. Murphy, also six months old, died Saturday and had been buried in a crude grave.

Food, blankets and medicines were taken to the family by welfare agents. Tom Murphy and one child, physicians said, probably would die, but the others had a chance of recovery.

Bremen Again Cuts
Transatlantic Time

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Captain Leopold Ziegenhein, master of the German liner Bremen, announced upon arrival here today that his ship had clipped 47 minutes off her recent record for a western crossing of the Atlantic.

She made the 3,098 miles from Cherbourg, breakwater to Ambrose lightship in 4 days, 15 hours and 56 minutes. The weather was described as moderate, with some rain but no fog.

With interest at 6 per cent will be made good on or before that date.

Atlanta merchants Wednesday were preparing to aid in cashing the scrip.

Another Negro Jailed
In Slugging of Woman

Police Wednesday night announced the arrest of Lucius Kyle, 22, negro janitor, in connection with the burglary of the home of Mrs. Martha E. Shivers, in an apartment at 453 North Boulevard, which was climaxed with the slugging of Mrs. Shivers.

Officers said that Kyle, who works as janitor in the apartment building, denied any connection with the case, but admitted that the hat found in Mrs. Shivers' apartment belonged to him. Police said that the hat was worn by Hector Goss, negro held for the slugging.

Mrs. Shivers is in a serious condition at Georgia Baptist hospital.

Better Than Whiskey
For Colds and Coughs

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspirinal, the two-minute relief for colds and coughs due to colds. Authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories: tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed, and proclaimed by the people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderful elixir, so all you have to do is to step into the nearest drug store, ask for a bottle of Aspirinal and tell the clerk to serve you two teaspoonsful. With your watch in your hands, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold or cough fading away within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all drug-gists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspirinal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quietest relief for catarrhal croup and children's choking up at night. —(ad.)

BURNS CAPTURED IN NEW JERSEY

Georgia Fugitive Retaken Two Years After Escape From Gang.

whereabouts, following a second escape from a Georgia chain gang, had been a popular topic of discussion because of the reputation given generally to his book and the motion picture, said to have been based on his story, recently shown all over the country.

In his "exposure" of chain gang conditions in Georgia, Burns declared his purpose to smash the Georgia prison system. Reports prior to the filming of his picture were that Burns had gone to Hollywood but prison officials here, reticent to discuss their efforts to recapture him, scouted this report. Before the publication of his book, Burns' brother, a New Jersey minister, announced that the book would soon come from the presses and quoted his brother's declaration that he would "smash the Georgia prison system."

Burns' last escape was from the Troup county chain gang on September 4, 1930. At that time the warden of the Troup chain gang, the Troup county commissioner, the state prison commission and the governor offered rewards totaling about $500.

It was his second escape from a Georgia chain gang. Convicted of a hold-up in Atlanta in 1922, he served less than two months on the Campbell county chain gang when he escaped and was next heard from as a successful Chicago publisher. His arrest came in June, 1929.

Burns' sentence for his part in the hold-up in Atlanta, was for a term of six to ten years.

After establishing himself as a Chicago publisher at a reputed salary of $30,000, Burns was arrested by authorities there upon information by Mrs. Burns, who revealed her husband's criminal record in Georgia because, she said, his affections had been transferred to another.

Burns at first fought his extradition to Georgia and obtained his freedom on bond through habeas corpus proceedings at Chicago. Later he came to Georgia and announced that he would withdraw the Chicago litigation and return to complete his sentence.

However, he employed attorneys in Atlanta and after again being a prisoner in the Campbell county chain gang, sought parole or commutation of his sentence before the Georgia prison commission as soon as he had served the required time.

Considerable interest was taken in the efforts of the Chicago real estate magazine editor to obtain freedom, his brother, a prominent minister, coming to Atlanta to plead for Burns. The prison commission denied the petition and Burns was transferred to the Troup county chain gang to complete his sentence.

It was from the Troup county chain gang that he escaped on September 4, 1930.

After his first escape, and after signifying his intention to become a model prisoner, he sent a letter to Governor L. G. Hardman announcing his willingness to return. He was brought back and was made a trustee, serving as water boy for the other prisoners. On the occasion of his last escape, he made his getaway after going for his bucket of water for the prisoners then working near Mountville. Burns failed to return.

A native of Brooklyn, Burns was a World War veteran and saw service in France. He wandered about aimlessly when he was discharged and came here, where he took over a holdup of a grocery store with two other men. The three were captured.

Family Poisoned. BETHLEHEM, Pa., Dec. 14.—(AP)—A physician was rushed from here today to the home of W. W. Busha, a farmer of the Shiloh community, 10 miles north of here, where his entire family was reported critically ill after eating biscuits in which poison had been placed instead of baking powder.

"WONDERFUL"—THAT IS WHAT SAY OF SARGON

"It Did More For Me Than I Ever Expected Any Medicine To Do," Declares Merchant.

Don't let bad health get the best of you. Face each day with new energy and the fighting vigor to carry on with the aid of Sargon. Read what W. S. Davis, well-known merchant and Mason, of 498 N. Liberty St., Spartanburg, S. C., says about this modern compound:

"Stomach trouble had been pulling me down for years and I'd gotten in mighty bad shape. Heartburn, indigestion and smothering sensations would come on me after meals, and sometimes I'd get so weak and dizzy I could hardly keep on my feet. I suffered so much with constipation that I nearly always had a headache. It took the strongest kind of purgatives to move my bowels. I never did sleep well and would get up in the mornings with such a backache it was all I could do to drag around the store. I felt grouchy and didn't take much interest in my business or anything else.

"Sargon did more for me than I ever expected of any medicine. I'm eating things now I wouldn't have dared to touch before, and my stomach has never been in better condition, and my whole system feels strengthened. The pain in my back

Rome Fights High Water; Chattahoochee Leaves Its Banks

BRIEF ILLNESS FATAL TO DAVID H. STARR, 37

David Homer Starr, 37, member of the lumber manufacturing firm of J. W. Starr & Sons, Atlanta, died Wednesday morning at his residence, 813 Virginia avenue, after a brief illness.

Born in Spalding county, Mr. Starr came to Atlanta with his parents when a boy of six and had lived here ever since. He returned to Atlanta to take an active part in the management of the lumber plant about a year ago, having lived previously in Woodland and White, Ga. He was educated at the University of Georgia and was an officer in Druid Hills Methodist church, where funeral services will be held Friday.

Mr. Starr is survived by his wife, four daughters, Charlotte, Virginia, Nancy Belle and Gladys Elisabeth; two sons, David Homer Jr., and James; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Starr; a sister, Mrs. W. C. Waters, and two brothers, J. T. and J. H. Starr.

by trucks connecting with the 10 a. m. Atlanta train.

The Etowah river, which joins the Oostanaula at Rome to form the Coosa, was falling slightly late Wednesday afternoon, partially easing the pressure caused by the Oostanaula. Canton, east of Rome on the Etowah, resumed travel over roads which had been blocked by water. The Etowah fell from 22 feet to 17 feet.

The weather bureau at Montgomery, Ala., warned residents and live stock owners along the Alabama river to take precautions against overflow. There were indications pointing to a 30-foot stage by Wednesday night; a rise of more than 4 feet was reported at Montgomery since Tuesday. Flood stage at Montgomery is 45 feet, but a 30-foot water level would flood bottom lands, it was said.

The Montgomery forecast calls for rain today.

Demopolis, Ala., was expecting a 35-foot stage of the Tombigbee river, flood stage being 39 feet. The river was above 41 feet Wednesday. The Tombigbee was threatening highways and had flooded extensive lowland areas in eastern Mississippi. Pearl river, at Jackson, Miss., was threatening the city's sewerage system and has spread over lands on the city's outskirts.

States bordering the Atlantic ocean and the Gulf were represented.

Guy Murder Hearing Slated for Monday

LONG BEACH, Cal., Dec. 14.—(AP)—William James (Curly) Guy, 24-year-old Welsh adventurer, faced a crowded courtroom today for arraignment on charges of killing Captain Walter Wanderwell, 35, noted globe trotter. Preliminary hearing was set for next Monday morning.

Guy is charged with shooting Wanderwell the night of December 5 aboard his yacht, Carmo, on the eve of Wanderwell's departure on another world cruise.

Guy's friend, Edward De Larm, an Indian aviator, who was held for a time as a material witness, was released when his attorney agreed to have De Larm in readiness at any time. De Larm is Guy's chief alibi witness. Two detectives accompanied De Larm to Glendale to make a final check of witnesses who have told of seeing Guy at De Larm's home the night of December 5. Ralph Dunlap, mechanic, also was freed.

Meanwhile Mrs. Aloha Wanderwell, widow of the slain adventurer, was making personal appearances in a Los Angeles theater in connection with a motion picture which she and her husband made in Amazon country.

Ansley Park To Take Leading Part In Light the Living Trees Campaign

Residents of Ansley Park, joining in the 1932 Light the Living Trees movement with their usual enthusiastic support, will offer a substantial contribution to the cause of Christmas cheer, it was announced Wednesday by J. Hope Tigner, secretary of the Ansley Park Civic League.

For the last several years Ansley Park has been a leader in the movement. "We hope this year, more than ever," Mr. Tigner said, "you will let the usual Christmas spirit within your household extend beyond your door as happy tidings to all. Varied colored lamps entwined in the branches of evergreen shrubs seem like bits of bright spirits sent from within your home to cheer the passing world."

South Carolina Moves To Auction City Halls at Greenville, Florence

BY ASHLEY HALSEY. (Copyright, 1932, by the United Press.) COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec. 14.—(UP)—Two South Carolina cities—Greenville and Florence—served notice on the state tax commission today they would not submit without a vigorous court fight to a sheriff's auction of their city halls and other property to satisfy a state tax claim.

The city of Columbia, another of four cities similarly served, said the sheriff's sale would be a disgrace to the state and a blow to the city's credit. The city of Greenville, set about finding ways and means of meeting the obligation, while Spartanburg, the fourth city, awaited a meeting of city council.

Similar action is pending against the counties of Greenville, Cherokee and Darlington, but the county of Edgefield, originally named with the others by Chairman Query, was released today on promise of State Senator J. S. Thurmond that the county's legislative delegation would include in the 1933 county supply bill adequate provision to meet the tax.

MAJORITY OF PRINTERS FAVOR 5-DAY WEEK

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Charles P. Howard, president of the International Typographical Union, said tonight unofficial returns from about one-half of the local unions showed a majority of 8,000 votes for the proposal to adopt a five-day week for the printers.

He said, however, the official returns would not be opened until December 17 and that he would not hazard a prediction on the final outcome.

In agreeing to carry the city through another 10 days, McKee said the bankers said they were depending upon the board of estimate to keep its pledge to effect a $400,000,000 reduction in the budget after being authorized by the legislature to do so.

STONEWALL WARNER, BUILDER, SUCCUMBS

70-Year-Old Atlantan Was Pioneer in Home Construction Field Here.

Stonewall Jackson (Uncle Jack) Warner, 70, of 778 Dixie avenue, pioneer in the Atlanta building industry, died Wednesday morning in a private hospital. Funeral services will be held at 11 o'clock Friday morning at Inman Park Methodist church. The Rev. Charles M. Lippman, the Rev. H. B. Mays and the Rev. Fred Gilson will officiate. Interment will be in West View cemetery.

Mr. Warner built many of the most beautiful homes in Atlanta and vicinity. He was actively associated with the Master Builders' Association, and the Atlanta Builders' Exchange, and was an officer and director of both bodies. He became nationally known through his participation in the National Builders' Exchange and was intimately associated with builders of the nation.

Mr. Warner was affiliated with Malta lodge of Masons, Mount Zion chapter of the Royal Arcanum, and was a steward of Inman Park Methodist church and was active in community and civic welfare work. Mr. Warner was born in Columbus, Ga., and lived in Montgomery, Ala., for a number of years. He came to Atlanta in 1882.

In addition to his wife, Mr. Warner is survived by a son, S. J. Warner Jr.; four brothers, O. F., W. C., H. K. and C. J. Warner, and three sisters, Mrs. J. W. Duke, Miss Georgia Warner and Mrs. Leila A. McNish.

Court Approves Sale Of F. & W. Grand Stores

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Federal Judge Alfred Cox approved today the sale of the F. & W. Grand 5, 10 and 25-cent stores, Inc. to the Catdyn Corporation, of New York.

The F. & W. Grand concern operated 73 stores scattered over the country, recently going in bankruptcy.

The court also denied the petition of preferred stockholders of the chain store concern for reversal of the referee in bankruptcy's ruling of sale. The sale price was $2,555,135. It was estimated that creditors of the chain concern would receive between 30 and 40 per cent of their claims.

Leon B. Baker, 20 Collier road, district manager of the F. & W. Grand Stores, said Wednesday night that the sale probably would not bring about any change in the operation of the Atlanta store, which is located at Whitehall and Hunter streets.

Ruth Judd's Husband Too Sick To 'Tell All'

PRESCOTT, Ariz., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Dr. W. C. Judd's announced plan to go to Phoenix to tell Sheriff J. R. McFadden the "whole truth" about the trunk murders of Agnes Anne Leroy and Hedvig Samuelson were frustrated today by refusal of authorities at the Fort Whipple United States Veterans' hospital to grant him a furlough.

The physician's wife, Winnie Ruth Judd, awaits execution February 11 for the murder of Mrs. Leroy.

When Dr. Judd learned the supreme court of Arizona had denied his wife a new trial he said he was "going to do now what I should have done months ago," and would go to Phoenix to "tell all" to Sheriff McFadden.

But the veterans' hospital, where he has been a patient since early this year, would not allow him to leave. Physicians at the hospital indicated it might be several days before they would let Dr. Judd go. Dr. Judd has been quoted as saying that letters received from his wife have involved another person in the slayings.

Police Lt. J. A. Scott, 4 Others Pensioned

Fire applications for pensions were approved by the police pension board at a meeting Wednesday afternoon and action on three, including that of the widow of Detective Sam Smith, was deferred until another meeting. Cowan, 61, one-time street car conductor, appointed in 1901; Patrolman Charles L. Camp, 70, who previously was a farmer, appointed 1900, and Patrolman Lee O. Askew, 63, ex-bartender, who joined the force in 1906.

GENEVA, Dec. 14.—(UP)—Mexico has given the League of Nations notice that she is withdrawing as a member, the United Press learned tonight.

A Mexican delegation handed the notice to Sir Eric Drummond, general secretary of the League, today. Two years' notice is required.

The withdrawal, it was explained,

GERMANY AGAIN SITS IN ARMS CONFERENCE

Litvinoff Raps "Big Five" for Their "Dominance" of Meeting.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Germany was welcomed back to the world disarmament conference today at the first meeting of the general conference commission since July.

Maxim Litvinoff, the Russian minister, sharply censured the five big powers for their "dominance." Sir John Simon, of Great Britain, and Rene Massigli, of France, justified the conference of the "big five" on the grounds that they had succeeded in bringing Germany back to the table.

"It's no good," said Sir John, "to look a gift horse in the mouth." The next meeting of the commission will be held on January 31.

is due solely to economic reasons and Mexico's annual contribution of $100,000 was cited.

Valuable Information

In addition to reading all food information obtainable, our dietitian visited and studied those systems used in the following sanitariums in the United States:

Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minnesota; The Battle Creek Sanitarium, Battle Creek, Michigan; Johns Hopkins, Baltimore, Maryland.

Therefore, you will notice our foods are healthier, more appetizing, sanitary, and less expensive. Much illness right now is caused by improper foods, incorrect combinations, eating at inferior restaurants, who are serving cheaper foods. Poor ventilation is against you there. One will find that we are actually underselling those places, that a change of fresh air is effected here every minute, that you can dine leisurely, insuring proper mastication (very important). Music, too.

We want you to visit with us if dining down town, are anxious to get acquainted with each and every guest. We expect you to make yourself known, that we may have the pleasure of assisting you with your meals in the future—that good health will be yours, always.

Twelfth Annual State Convention Opens at Biltmore This Morning.

The 12th annual convention of the Georgia Real Estate Association will open this morning at 10 o'clock at the Biltmore hotel. The convention will continue through Friday.

Real estate men from Macon, Savannah, Augusta, Columbus and other Georgia cities and towns will be in attendance. Notables of the real estate world will make addresses, and the local realtors have planned several entertainment features.

T. H. Hall III, of Macon, president of the association, will open the convention, and Dr. Ryland Knight, of Atlanta, will deliver the invocation. Mayor James L. Key and Milton H. Liebman, president of the Atlanta Real Estate Board, will welcome the visitors. J. Clay Murphy, of Macon, will respond.

Speeches by L. T. Stevenson, of Pittsburgh, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and Guy Ellis, of Sea Island Beach, will be made at the morning session. President Liebman will preside at the afternoon session.

At the afternoon session Frank H. Neely, general manager of Rich's; Albert Wendick, St. Louis broker, and A. John Berger, of the national association, will make talks. Tonight the banquet will be held, at which the home-town oratorical contest will be staged. Awards of the Oris trophy and the home-town speech cup will be made on this occasion.

Friday's session will be devoted to addresses, business meetings, and will end with a dinner-dance at the Ansley hotel ballroom.

AUTOMOBILE MEN TO HOLD MEETING

Plans have been completed for the annual celebration and election of officers of the Atlanta Automobile Association tomorrow evening at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

At the business session, which will start promptly at 8:30 o'clock, 1933 officers will be elected and other items of business transacted. The meeting will then adjourn to the main dining room, where a banquet will be served, accompanied by an elaborate entertainment program under the direction of Al Belle Isle.

The annual report of retiring President Joel Daves, which will be distributed to the members, will show that the finances and membership of the association have held up exceedingly well. It will outline briefly the advantages of affiliation with the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association; cover the work done by the association on such matters as city, state and national taxes, and will refer briefly to the interest the association has taken in license tag matters and registration lists.

It will also cover the action taken by the association to prevent bootlegging of new cars in Atlanta, and will refer to the 1933 legislative sessions, co-operation with the National Used Car Market Report, Inc., co-operation rendered by the newspaper, and the work done by the board of directors and the various committees.

The 1932 officers are Joel Daves, president; W. M. Boomershire, first vice president; Mark C. Pope Jr., second vice president; Hal Smith, honorary secretary-treasurer, and L. L. Austin, secretary.

Library Drive Draws 93 Books in 2 Days

Ninety-three books were returned to the Carnegie library, with "no questions asked," during the first two days of "finesless week." Miss Jessie Hopkins, librarian, said Wednesday. During the same two days 661 borrowers called in person to have their fines cancelled. Books are badly needed at the library and it is hoped that borrowers will return the books when they ask to have their fines cancelled, Miss Hopkins said.

The English avenue branch is ahead of all branches, with 196 borrowers reinstated during the first two days. Anne Wallace branch cleared 141 cards. One boy brought back a book that he claimed he found in a garbage can, it was said.

It will specialize in steaks and chops and sea food. A la carte service and special luncheons and dinners will be given. Attention will be given to private parties.

The owners announce also that semi-private dining rooms may be obtained by request. Private booths are also a feature of the Hofbrau.

Negro Slugged, Robbed.

Three men Wednesday morning kidnapped Willie Jackson, negro employee of the Wood filling station at Tenth street and North boulevard, on his way to the bank with $85 and threw out the negro at Pelham and Piedmont roads after a police report. First Scrimmage on Coast Shows Jackets To Be in Ragged Form

EN ROUTE WITH TECH FOOTBALL TEAM, Dec. 12.—(By Air Mail.)—And so we left the Royal Gorge with all its magnificent beauty and its sheer grandeur which pressed on one like a weight—Tech's jackets going west.

One stared at the little houses at the foot of the towering peaks and wondered if those saw framed in snow-covered doors absorbed some of the grandeur from the mountains about them and if we need feel sorry for them in their isolation?

And there were the holes in the side of the bank of the rowdy Arkansas river, no wider than a south Georgia country branch, where placer mining went on in summer. Snow covered it all, but there were the holes that man had made seeking a few grains of gold.

And there were the curious names of the towns, eternal imprints of those varied people who came years and years ago. Pueblo—which is Spanish for "place" or "town"; and Texas Creek—where some Texan came and built his shack at the headwaters of a creek; and Tennessee Pass, where some buckskinned man with a long rifle came from Tennessee; and Schaffer, where some stolid German had stopped—all in the American Rockies and symbols of the restless spirit and wandering feet which built the nation.

And then night and the mountains. And snow blowing into the passages between the Pullmans—16 below zero and embarrassed citizens saying that it was the coldest weather in years.

Morning and Salt Lake City—the end of one of the most dramatic incidents in American history—the trek of the heroic Mormons to the valley of the salt lake.

A STUDY IN SCARLET.

Most of the football players had read Cowan Doyle's "Study in Scarlet" with its slender thread going back to that heroic march across the hostile plains—

But that wasn't the story. There was a grand man at Salt Lake City—an educator—who stood there and said that his mother brought him across those arid and hostile plains in a wheelbarrow. She wheeled him all those hundreds of miles in the dust and sun and in danger and sorrow. Some day the story of that great epic march will be told.

It doesn't look like a fertile plain while in it, but from the rim of mountains about it one can see that it is. The long trek from Wahoo ended at those mountains when Brigham Young spread out his arms and said, "Here is our promised land."

And so the train went on over the slowly evaporating salt lake, formed there by some great upheaval some million or so years ago.

The refracted sun rays played on the iridescent surface—making a thousand violet rays of light and a thousand red and purple ones—a dead lake that no one can explain.

That trek across the plains was a study in scarlet—a study in scarlet courage.

LO, THE POOR INDIAN.

There is a monument at Calhoun, Ga., a pretty one, to Sequoyia, the great Georgia Cherokee, who invented an alphabet for his people and who lived to print newspapers and books in the language of his people.

And there are the giant redwood trees in California which are called Sequoyas and named, I suppose, for the great Georgia chief of the Cherokees.

And through the rainbow-colored mountains of Colorado runs a highway which is known as the Chief Ouray highway.

The redwoods in California, the monument at Calhoun and a few books and relics are left of Sequoyia. And the highway and a few records and old men's stories are all that remind one of Ouray.

I wonder if the spirits of those two braves are not a bit ironical as they see what has been done. Because Sequoyia lived to see his people driven from their lands in Cherokee county, Georgia, to freeze and starve and die as soldiers hunted them out and drove them through winter roads to the west.

And Ouray, chief of the Utes in Colorado, fought the Indian tribes about him—beating back the Arapahoes, the Cheyennes and the Sioux—for the protection of the white man.

And there came a time when he rode 130 miles, racked with fever, to tell his people to sign a treaty which General Sheridan held—and one which he was greatly worried about as he and his commission waited in the land of the Utes.

The ride killed Ouray and it killed the love his people had for him. But the treaty was signed.

And now the tourists ride along the highway. And stop for hot dogs and hamburgers. And soft drinks. And not one in a thousand knows.

Chief Ouray highway—what a curious name! More mustard, please, on that hot dog.

REALLY EDUCATIONAL.

Casey Jones, the young man from Newman, who plays a substitute guard on the Georgia Tech team, led off the remarks about this trip when he said, as the train left Atlanta—"You know, this is really a good trip for a country boy."

And yesterday—after the boys had seen Pueblo and the beauty and the grandeur of the Royal Gorge and the placer mines and when they had met people and talked with them; and when they had seen cattle and ranches and modern Indians—Tom Cain, the Texan, drew in all seriousness—

"You know, a fellow could study a thousand books and not know all this."

Minnesota Wins Fumbling Honors

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Just one more good early report for getting the 1932 football season is what Minnesota fans are having.

They got the urge after today's statistics pronounced the information that Minnesota, apparently without any opposition whatever, may claim the national fumbling championship.

Playing an eight-game schedule, the Gophers made 46 miscues, or an average of almost six per game.

Nineteen of the 46 fumbles were recovered by the opposition which messed up the ball 20 times, to have Minnesota recover nine and all three games Minnesota lost were directly traceable to fumbles recovered by the enemy.

The peak of the fumbling production came in the Mississippi game when Bernie Bierman's boys bawled up the ball 10 times. They finished the season by fumbling eight times against Michigan which recovered four besides recovering their own lone bobbie.

The statistics showed that regulars and substitutes shared alike in the fumbling.

Fast handling of the ball behind the line as required by the new Bierman system apparently caused the trouble.

Memphis Fans Seek Charity Grid Game

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the Southeastern conference, said today no action had been taken on the petition for the sanction by the conference of a charity football game between Memphis and conference football stars.

He sent telegrams to other officers of the conference today, requesting their views regarding such a game. A decision regarding the charity contest probably will be made Thursday.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Senior football players on teams belonging to the newly organized Southeastern conference who are eligible for winter and spring sports shall not be permitted to participate in a proposed charity grid game at Memphis, Tenn., if they wish to remain eligible.

Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the University of Kentucky and president of the conference, said here tonight.

Senators, Browns Announce 6-Player Deal. Others Busy.

Marberry Traded For Earl Whitehill

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The Washington Senators today traded Fred Marberry, big right-handed pitcher, to Detroit for Earl Whitehill, southpaw hurler, in a straight player transaction.

By Alan Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP)—In a scramble to swap player talent that has now assumed record-breaking proportions, the Washington and St. Louis clubs of the American league today with a spectacular six-player deal.

Tossing in a bundle of cash to bind the bargain, Washington retained the services of the slugging Goose Goslin, outfielder, along with Walter Stearns, ace southpaw pitcher, and Fred Schulte, another outfield star, in exchange for Lloyd Brown, sturdy left-handed hurler, and Sam West and Carl Reynolds, outfielders.

The immediate result of the trade was to boost the 1933 pennant stock of the Senators, who are intent upon challenging the supremacy of the New York Yankees, and add to the reputation of the "old fox," Clark Griffith, Washington president, Griffith was the prime mover in the deal which restores an old idol to the capital in Goslin and gives the club the services of one of the best left-handers in baseball in Stewart.

Meanwhile, three National league clubs, the Boston Braves, New York Giants and Cincinnati Reds, have announced deals for minor league talent, although the long-heralded and much-ballyhooed swap between the Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers failed to materialize definitely.

BRVES PUT STARS.

The Braves, having rejected bids from the Giants for a star pitcher in exchange for Frank Hogan, catcher, disclosed purchases of two young infielders of the Mission league of the Pacific Coast league for the starting sum of $60,000 in cash and Bill Walters, a third-sacker. These high-priced acquisitions are Albert Wright, second baseman, and Dick Gyselman, third-sacker, both around 20 years old and touted as coming seasons.

Cincinnati, finding it difficult to make headway in major league circles, purchased Clarence Blair, infielder, from Los Angeles and outfielder Irving Plummer from the Wilkes-Barre club of the New York Pennsylvania league. Blair formerly was with the Chicago Cubs.

All the Giants had to announce, after a busy day, was they had obtained a shortstop, John "Blondie" Ryan from Buffalo, of the International league, in exchange for cash and Eddie Marshall, utility infielder, but there was still talk that the New York and Brooklyn clubs would get together. Ryan formerly starred at Holy Cross.

There were many volunteer suggestions as to what the rival metropolitan clubs could do to take advantage of the fact that the Giants wanted Gordon Slade, shortstop, if they parted with Sam Leslie, reserve first-baseman. Observers pointed to the confidence of getting Leslie in the fact that an opportunity to sign Joe Judge, declared a free agent by Washington, was on hand, but this was pure speculation. Judge was still available.

NOT SATISFIED.

The Giants and their young manager, Bill Terry, so far have found it extremely difficult to get just what they wanted in attempting a complete shakeup of the club. In parting with players like Freddy Lindstrom, Bill Walker, Jim Moyer, Bob O'Farrell and Chick Fuller, the Giants were left with Ray Starr and Gus Mancuso from the Cardinals, George Davis from the Phillies, pitcher Glenn Spencer from the Pirates, Pitcher Ed Shue from Portland (Ore.) and Shortstop Ryan from Buffalo.

With player salaries due for additional trimmings for 1933, umpires also will feel the effect of the major league pay roll "cut." After a session today, William Harridge, president of the American league, said the salaries of all umpires would be cut 10 percent, and John A. Heydler, the National league's chief executive, indicated his staff of arbiters might be reduced.

The American league will retain its limit of 10 umpires, but two veterans will be dropped to make room for a pair of newcomers, Will Summers and Louis Kolls, formerly with the International league.

The American league, at the joint meeting with the National league tomorrow, will sponsor a proposal to permit individual pennant-winners to sell world series tickets henceforth as they desire, either singly or in the blocks of three, as has been the custom.

Senators Trade Youth For 'Yets.'

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Comparative figures on the six players figuring today in the Washington-St. Louis baseball deal indicate the Senators exchanged youth for experience but otherwise reveal little difference in records.

The comparison, based on unofficial records, follows:

PLAYER	W	L	IP	ERA
Walter Stewart, pitcher, Age 23	2	2	23	7.8
Lloyd Brown, pitcher, Age 28	7	3	52	7.1
Earl Whitehill, pitcher, Age 27	1	1	1	0.0
Goose Goslin, outfielder, Age 31	12	3	325	1.8
Carl Reynolds, outfielder, Age 28	1	1	1	0.0
Sam West, outfielder, Age 28	6	3	200	2.0
Fred Schulte, outfielder, Age 28	6	3	200	2.0

Last season, Stewart won 15 and lost 19 with St. Louis, while Brown won 15 and lost 12. The 1932 batting marks for the others: Reynolds .303; Goslin .299; Schulte .294; West .287.

WOLFPACK CAPTAIN.

RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Edgar (Mope) Cumisker, of Youngstown, Ohio, star fullback on this year's North Carolina State College football squad, tonight was elected captain of the 1933 Wolfpack. He is a junior.

TECH'S QUINTET HIT BY 'FLU'; PRACTICE ENDS

Mundorff Sends Men Home for Holidays. Return Jan. 2.

By Jimmy Jones.

Georgia Tech's varsity basketball squad, which has been practicing for about three weeks at the Atlanta Athletic Club, has been dealt a rather staggering cuff by that insidious character about town, Old Man Influenza.

A visit to the Jackets' court yesterday revealed that Roy Mundorff, in Tech coach, has seen some five or six of his basketball men depart for their homes with temperatures and consequently has decided to suspend practice tomorrow for the Christmas holidays.

Among the players taken ill was Orr, giant sophomore center candidate, and others soon joined him on the sick list.

CALLS IT OFF.

Consequently Mundorff has announced that there will be no more official practices after Friday. He has called for practice to be resumed on January 2.

The Tech schedule is still in the process of completion and will include games with as many southeastern conference teams as possible.

The Jackets will play their first game around January 9.

Mundorff has been fortunate in the fact that most of the men used in first-string scrimmages have held up thus far. With four sure-fire varsity performers away with the football team, he has concentrated on developing a team that might play a game as it stands if necessary.

He is having to work largely with sophomore material but has found one young infielder of the Mission league of the Pacific Coast league for the starting sum of $60,000 in cash and Bill Walters, a third-sacker. These high-priced acquisitions are Albert Wright, second baseman, and Dick Gyselman, third-sacker, both around 20 years old and touted as coming seasons.

Competes Again

LOUISA ROBERT.

Miss Robert Competes At Miami This Month

Leading Feminine Swimming Stars To Take Part; Joan McSheehy To Be There.

By Jack Troy.

Louisa Robert will enter competitive swimming again with leading feminine stars of the nation the latter part of this month at Miami, Fla., marking her first appearance since making the Olympic swimming team in final trials at Jones Beach, L. I.

Miami is putting on a gala water carnival, signaling the opening of the winter sports season. The event will be held at the Biltmore December 29, 30 and 31.

Completely recovered from an operation for appendicitis that removed her from the United States Olympic swimming team just as the international event opened, Miss Robert has been swimming regularly at Agnes Scott, where she is a student, and is in excellent condition.

The Miami event is significant in that Miss Robert will resume a keen rivalry with Miss Joan McSheehy, New York star and former team-mate of Eleanor Holm, retired national and Olympic backstroke champion.

MISS HOLM RETIRES.

Miss Holm gave up amateur swimming for a career in the movies and left the backstroke field comparatively clear for Miss Robert. Her foremost competitor now is Miss McSheehy.

There has always been considerable doubt as to Miss McSheehy's ability to keep up her record in the pool by Louisa in a trial heat at Jones Beach. Then in the finals Louisa drew the outside lane on a wind-chopped course and was barely knocked out of second place by her rival.

And so the resumption of the duel at Miami this month will be watched with no little interest.

There will be a galaxy of feminine stars at Miami. Miss Charlotte Epstein, of New York, is in charge of a brilliant group of Olympic stars who will take part.

LOOK THEM OVER.

There will be Lisa Lindstrom, Joan McSheehy, Dorothea Dickinson, Jessie Conway, Georgia Coleman, Josephine McKim, Lenore Knight, Anna Gorman, Margaret Hoffman and Helen Meany, among others.

Little Katherine Rawls, of Miami, Olympic diving champion, will resume her rivalry with Georgia Coleman.

Miss Robert leaves Atlanta Sunday for a week in Palm Beach, where she will train before joining the others in Miami, where she will spend Christmas.

Miss Robert plans to enter competitive meets from time to time between now and 1936, when she will again seek a place on the United States team for the Olympics at Berlin, Germany.

She will then be 21 and at the peak of her swimming career. She may become national backstroke champion long before then, just as she won the national junior title in a breath-taking manner after only two years of swimming.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14.—(UP)—A trophy symbolical of the mythical national football championship will be awarded the winner of the Southern California-Pittsburgh game at Pasadena by Jack Rissman, Chicago sportsman, who donated the Dickinson rating cup.

DEALER BACKS BABE IN FIGHT FOR A. A. U. RANK

Says Telegram, Sole Order for Ad Release, Bears No Signature.

DALLAS, Texas, Dec. 14.—(AP)—About to restore Mildred Babe Didrikson's amateur standing, E. Gordon Perry, automobile dealer, today produced a carbon copy of what he said was the document upon which the A. A. U. has ruled her future status depends.

Perry also produced what he said was the original proof of an advertisement prepared by a New York agency and forwarded to Dallas. It has no signature of any person on it. Perry said this was the proof shown Miss Didrikson and the one she never put her approval on because she feared it would impair her amateur status.

In handing down his decision, Lawrence Di Benedetto of New Orleans, chairman of the registration committee and secretary of the Southern A. A. U., ruled Miss Didrikson was "suspended" until such time as she produces either the original or photostatic copy of the so-called release. Gordon Perry admits sending on to his factory so we can make our final decision.

The Olympic star was barred from amateur participation because an advertisement carried a picture of her and quoted her as recommending the automobile sold locally by the company Perry heads.

Perry said the following telegram was the sole authorization for using the advertisement:

"Lester Smith, 'Ruthrauff and Ryan, Inc.,' 405 Lexington Avenue, 'New York: 'Referring to Ernest Cole's letter from Detroit, November 14, wish to advise you are handling enthusiastic opinion of Dodge expressed by Babe Didrikson in way which does not interfere with her amateur standing. O. K. to use ad number two tonight, year, thirty-two as set up in proof."

Perry said he wished to repeat that Miss Didrikson is correct in her denial that she gave authorization to use the advertisement.

Agency Released Ad on Perry's Word.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The advertising agency of Ruthrauff and Ryan, which handled the advertisement picturing Mildred (Babe) Didrikson appearing in an automobile, and which led to her suspension by the Amateur Athletic Union, today said the only release they received on the subject was a telegram from E. Gordon Perry, Dallas automobile dealer.

Perry made public in Dallas a telegram to the agency, which he also said was the only communication he had.

A spokesman for the agency said they had no direct dealings with Miss Didrikson, but paid her nothing for appearing in the advertisement, which it is "does not interfere with her amateur standing."

Wade Satisfied With Split In Group

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Although expressing regret at the division of the old Southern conference, Wallace Wade, head football coach at Duke University, said today: "Perhaps it is for the best."

"I hated to see the conference split, naturally," said the former Alabama coach. "We believe at Duke that we are beginning to get somewhere. Our football team this year was better than in 1931. I believe we will have a still better team in 1933. Frankly, I think we would have been right up around the top had the old conference remained intact."

"On the other hand, perhaps it is for the best. The seeders may be pulled out of the majority of the best football teams, but our conference, in many ways, will be better than before. It is more compact and should be better managed. Things up this way have always been cleaner and higher standard have prevailed. We will be harassed with the distrust, suspicion and politics that existed in the old conference, almost altogether between members of the seedling group, now the Southeastern conference."

"Honestly, at the old conference meetings," Wade continued, "I always hated to go on the floor, there was so much suspicion and distrust, the feeling existing that you were always trying to put over something on them. In our conference, as it stands now, there is none of this."

There will be Lisa Lindstrom, Joan McSheehy, Dorothea Dickinson, Jessie Conway, Georgia Coleman, Josephine McKim, Lenore Knight, Anna Gorman, Margaret Hoffman and Helen Meany, among others.

Little Katherine Rawls, of Miami, Olympic diving champion, will resume her rivalry with Georgia Coleman.

Jersey City Club Extended Courtesy

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(UP)—The International league at its meeting today gave Sam Colacurcio, president of the Jersey City Skeeters, until January 10 to straighten out financial difficulties which are bothering his club.

It is said Jersey City is approximately $100,000 in debt and that the league will approve if the club is sold.

Gilbert and Mills Ride Two Winners

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The great riding duel between Johnny Gilbert of Kansas and Hank Mills, of Colorado, moved on toward the mark of 200 winners today, with no change in the relative positions of the rival jockeys. They each scored doubles today, giving Gilbert 193 winners so far this year and Mills 191.

Mills added a little more to his laurels today as he brought two mounts home in the show positions in addition to his winners, but Gilbert brought in a long shot, Quatre Bras II, in the feature event. Rip Van Winkle took second, beating Protractor by a head.

JONES INJURED DURING DRILL; CANNON IS SICK

Tech Will Not Play Any Intersectional Games Next Season.

By Ralph McGill.

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 14.—Georgia Tech's first scrimmage on California soil, held this morning, confirmed the worst fears of the coaching staff.

The team had lost all its timing and all its drive. The tackling and blocking was very faulty and the plays were run off in ragged fashion. "It is just a question of how much form we will regain," said Coach Alexander after the practice. "I think we will get some of it back. We may get all of it."

Not only was the practice a poor one but Casey Jones, first-string guard, hurt his shoulder in the scrimmage and may be out of the game. Trainer Mike Chandler reported, however, that he thought he might be able to get the Newnan boy in shape for the game.

The squad worked without the services of Jack Cannon, line coach, who was confined to his room at the hotel with a severe cold and influenza attack.

Cannon and Jones are the only casualties. Other players are in good shape. The trip was to Palo Alto, home of President Herbert Hoover, and Stanford University.

The boys from Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt's adopted state had a great time on the trip. They were royally received by the Stanford boys and shown over the campus and the football stadium.

Pop Warner, recently resigned from Stanford, met the boys and they were all pleased at the meeting. Warner and Coach Alexander are good friends of many years' standing.

Stanford has been mentioned as a possible opponent for Tech next year but the proposal is definitely off. Tech will play an intersectional game next fall, it was learned today.

TECH SCHEDULE. Tech's schedule for 1933 will include the Southern conference and nine already scheduled. They include Clemson, Kentucky, North Carolina, Auburn, Tulane, Florida, Vanderbilt, Alabama and Georgia. The tenth game is undecided.

Loyola, of New Orleans, not a member of the Southern conference nor of the newly formed Southeastern conference, is seeking a game with Tech. The card is open on December 2. Loyola is one of several teams being considered.

The schedule announcement today definitely ended reports that California or Stanford would appear on the 1933 schedule. Tech will work again Thursday morning. On Friday they will practice in the afternoon.

Bears Are Given Heavy Workout.

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Thoroughly at home in their new surroundings, Georgia Tech's football warriors upset precedent to go through a scrimmage today in their preparations for the game here Saturday with California Bears.

Coach Bill Alexander explained the strenuous workout with: "It will do the boys good. They might as well get used to the conditions on the trail because those Californians look pretty big."

The California team will outweigh Georgia's approximately twelve pounds to the man.

PARIS LOVE

By Nina Wilcox Putnam

INSTALLMENT XXXIII.

"He had the car in there for only an hour!" Armand informed her at lunch time. "Said he was going to put it in, but never came back with it. And none of the other first-class places know where he keeps it. I've had a fine job, making my inquiries without arousing suspicion, and it certainly is damned queer that he should actually hide the car itself!"

"I no longer feel there is the slightest chance of the jewels and the car being connected," she told him wearily. "At times the whole incident seems absurd and I feel that I acted on a mistake. I've brought you on a wild goose chase, my dear!"

"I hope not!" he said. "Suppose they call me for trial in Paris and I have nothing to show but a series of hotel receipts from towns across country? That will look what you call, not so warm! Besides, if Santini has not got a reason for keeping that car out of our reach, why does he hide it? Furthermore, where does he hide it? One doesn't put a thing that size in one's pocket, and I haven't forgotten how he made it vanish like a rabbit into a hat."

"There wasn't even any hat left," she reminded him. "If we could only get a good look at the place he keeps it, we might know a lot more than we do now."

An hour later de Pas was climbing into the car which he had driven down from Paris. He had put on the regulation driving clothes which he would wear tomorrow, to-wit, white overalls and headpiece of closely woven toile and large goggles, for the wind on the upper Corniche road where he intended of the disorderly Europa her final tryout, was heavy. The mechanic who had been working on the car ever since its arrival jumped in beside him, and they were off.

The day was beautiful and the car ran to perfection, the thousand miles from Paris having given it just the breaking-in it needed; and for the moment all Armand's thoughts centered on tomorrow's race. The big golden cup, he hoped devoutly, would be only the first trophy he was going to lay at Alacia's feet. He must get it for her—her—her! Here was the only applause he craved; her pleasure in victory for the car which, as he knew, meant so much to her, the only reward he desired. Responding to his highest thought as it did, the car appeared to be alive and consciously cooperating with him. Then after a highly satisfactory hour's run he turned back toward Monte Carlo. Dusk was falling and the little principality jutted out into the purple sea, jeweled with lights, incredibly, fantastically beautiful and unreal. There was music in the open restaurant of the Cafe de Paris, and the whole town, decked with the Prince of Monaco's arms and colors in honor of the forthcoming race, presented an air of carnival. As they drove down on the main thoroughfare the mechanic addressed him with a reminder.

"Pardon mon prince," said he, "but you have no number on the car as yet."

"Zut! but you are right!" exclaimed Armand. "Rather important, that! Where is the atelier where the chap paints them on, do you know?"

"It is up the rue des Bataignes, a little further along on the left," said the mechanic. "I can take the car there as soon as you return to the hotel, mon prince."

"We will go now," said Armand pleasantly. "I like to see those fellows work."

"Yes, mon prince," murmured the man. "It is a useful métier."

The paint shop in the rue des Bataignes was down a narrow side street, rather less well lit than is the rule in the spotless little city. Several cars in various stages of redecoration stood on the floor, but it was late and the workers had left for the day. The big shadowy room smelled pleasantly of turpentine and body-polish and the sweet oil which is mixed in caulking cement, and the lights on the main floor had been turned off, although one still burned in the little office. Armand parked in the semi-darkness of the room, and the mechanic jumped out.

"I'm afraid it's too late," remarked Armand, but the mechanic was insistent in his demand for a number.

"Non, non, mon prince!" he said. "I know the place well, and it is never too late for Bernarde, not on the night before a race! He's left the boy in charge while he is upstairs having his supper, and naturally the boy has played monkey just a moment. I will find him."

The man strode on the far side of the building. Hardly had he gone when Armand became conscious of a presence behind him. He had not moved in his seat even to lift the heavy goggles he was still wearing over the close-fitting dust-cap, and he certainly had heard no sound of an approach. Yet there was undoubtedly someone there, close behind him. A quick sideways glance revealed the figure of a man standing motionless in the darkness not a foot away. Then before Armand could cry out or move the figure stepped forward, and the mechanic leaned nearer.

"I recognized the car," he whispered quickly, "and I had to speak to you. It seemed a good moment, since you had warned me to keep away from the house. Everything is arranged. I have the necessary car-papers for Italy, and you will leave the dice, you work your road of the upholstery behind your own seat. Make no attempt to remove them, my friend, because you are being carefully watched. If you find the car in the garage for one moment after putting the car in tonight, or attempt to stay there alone at any time between now and the race, you will continue to stay there until the corner comes for you! Understand that well! The city is alive with eyes and they are all upon you. More, you personally must not attempt to cross the border, for there are two headquarters men from Paris in town. Go back to the boulevards on the first possible train. It looks better. Do you understand?" Armand nodded, and the man seemed satisfied, for he went on hurriedly.

"Immediately after the race," said he, "I will come up to you wearing your mechanic's clothes and you will hand the car over to me. I'll drive it to Genoa. Lejarre will take care of the sale and all arrangements."

At the sound of Lejarre's name Armand could not suppress a little sound of amazement. But his mysterious informant did not seem surprised at this.

"He arrived only this morning and the flocks are hot on his trail," he added in explanation. "He's got to get out of the country and the car is the best way. He's dug up an Italian passport, and he's got to use it before they notify the border. Alons, Santini, let me remind you that if so much as a stone is missing, well, you know what Charlie looked like when they found him in the Seine! Tomorrow, then, after the race, look for a red and white number five mechanic!"

Someone was coming down the staircase behind the door across the shop. There was a sound of rough voices laughing and talking, and Bernarde, the painter, entering first, switched on the light. But quickly as he did so, the man who had whispered of the darkness had been swift, for even as Armand turned to look, he was gone. How far? Would he linger over the door which he had opened next? De Pas swung a long leg over the side of the car and went to glance into the dim street outside. Fifty feet away a shadow was moving close to the wall. It reached the boulevard and melted into the crowd upon the thoroughfare, and Armand came back satisfied that the creature, whoever he was, had gone.

Armand lit a cigaret and tried to collect his thoughts, still a little stunned by the overwhelming piece of good luck which had befallen him. It was not easy to catalog the information which had been so generously handed to him in a moment's time, but its genuineness was beyond question. From the man's talk it was obvious that he had been out of touch with Santini, perhaps since immediately after the latter's arrival. Also, it was reasonable to deduce that the man had been lying low somewhere for he had evidently associated closely with Lejarre, and Lejarre was beyond question the police! Perhaps the mysterious agent did not even realize that a second Europa had been entered for the race. So, in a way, he was a part of the theft of the rubies! This bit of information threw light on a great many things. Lejarre had been with Armand ever since the safe had been opened. It was he who had helped collect the little packets in which they had been kept, and it was he, beyond a doubt, who had palmed the real stones and substituted the false under the very noses of himself and the blockhead of a surety representative! Come to think of it, the man had merely used the commonest of card tricks! And his formal dress with the starched cuffs which was de re pour Armand had aided him nicely. No wonder only one set of fingerprints showed on the papers M. Jesant had carried away for examination! And no wonder, too, that when Lejarre got wind of this he had informal leave of the establishment!

And so Santini, under paid of death from his distrustful confederates, was to hand over the jewels to return to Paris, his hands apparently clean, to begin a new program of crime! Well, Armand thought with satisfaction, not having received any suggestions in the matter, Santini would undoubtedly make a dash for Italy as he had originally planned. And if Santini went to Italy, the jewels would go with him. If his arrest could not be managed before the race, then he must be prevented from leaving the track afterward, even momentarily. But how? Cursing himself for a fool in allowing his informant to leave without shadowing him, Armand watched unseeing the good-night ritual. Bernarde painted his car with a huge black number seven.

Miss Cheney Weds Mr. Morris At Home Ceremony in Marietta

MARIETTA, Ga., Dec. 14.—A wedding of wide interest was that of Miss Evelyn Cheney and Fred Morris Jr., both of Marietta, which was solemnized this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of the bride's grandmother, Judge John M. Stone, on Wadell street, Marietta. Dr. J. H. Patton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives and close friends.

A recess in the spacious living room was banked with ferns, smilax and ivy. Pedestal baskets holding white chrysanthemums were placed on either side, forming an improvised altar, where the vows were taken. On either side of the altar were seven-branched candelabra holding white lighted tapers and four silver candlesticks with lighted tapers were placed on each mantle throughout the lower floor. Amidst a background of greenery and ferns, white chrysanthemums adorned the adjoining rooms.

Mrs. M. D. Hodges, aunt of the bride and an accomplished pianist, was in charge of the musical program. Mrs. Adrian V. Cortelyou sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" before the ceremony and the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" was played as a processional. Chorus was played as a processional. The bride chose for her only attendant her sister, Miss Frances Cheney, who was becomingly gowned in hyacinth blue pebble crepe, trimmed with wine-colored velvet. Her close-fitting felt hat was of the same tint with accessories of Talsman roses, tied with satin ribbon of the same shade.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, John Percival Cheney, and they were met at the altar by the bridegroom and his father, Fred Morris Sr., who was chosen by his son as best man. The bride's blonde beauty was enhanced by her lovely gown of green triple sheer chiffon. The boat-shaped neckline was finished with a band of beaded design. The sleeves extended to the elbow and were trimmed with bands of fox fur. She wore a brown crepe turban with tiny brown veil, brown gloves and brown shoes and carried a bouquet of sunlit roses tied with satin ribbon, the shade of the roses.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Cheney, parents of the bride, entertained at an informal reception and in addition the bride and bridegroom were assisted by Miss Frances Cheney, Miss Marjorie Cheney, Fred Morris Sr., Judge Stone and Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Hodges. Mrs. Cheney was gowned in black lace and wore a shoulder spray of pink roses. Miss Marjorie Cheney was becomingly gowned in tomato-colored pebble crepe, trimmed with bands of fur, and her shoulder spray was of yellow roses.

An imported lace cloth covered the dining table, which was centered with a silver bowl of pink roses and fern, and silver compotes held pink and white mints. Casting a soft glow over the scene were crystal candelabra holding green tapers.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris left for Washington, D. C., and upon their return to Marietta will reside with the bridegroom's father on Cherokee street. Mrs. Morris chose a brown traveling dress with brown accessories, with which she wore a green coat, trimmed with mink fur.

Miss Partee and Mr. Parrish Wed At Church Ceremony in Decatur

The marriage of Miss Almeida Partee, of Decatur, and Herschel Hooper Parrish, of St. Augustine, Fla., was solemnized Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the First Methodist church in Decatur. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. F. Alfred, in the presence of relatives and close friends. The church decorations were in green and white, the altar being banked with ferns and stately palms, which formed an effective background for the pedestal baskets filled with white chrysanthemums, and the seven-branched candelabra holding white tapers. The pews for the family were marked with clusters of white chrysanthemums tied with tulle bows.

Miss Frances Burgess was in charge of the wedding music, and preceding the ceremony Mrs. Walter Partee, of Social Circle, sang "At Dawning." Carl Mackin and Ralph Metts acted as ushers, and Marvin Partee and Groves Partee Jr., brothers of the bride, were junior ushers and lighted the tapers in the candelabra at the altar.

The groomsmen included William Owens, Russell Cansler and Dave Goffrey. The bridesmaids, Misses Louise Hancock, Dora Aldred and Martha Herren, were gowned alike in models of orchid chiffon velvet, made with flared skirts reaching to the floor. Becoming velvet turbans of orchid chiffon velvet and velvet shoes in matching shade added a modish touch to their costumes. They wore white kid gloves and carried sweet bouquets of Talsman roses and sweetpeas.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Fred Wolfe, of Gainesville, Fla., was gowned in a gown of pale green chiffon velvet made along lines similar to the gowns worn by the bridesmaids. Her shoes and hat were in matching shade and she wore white kid gloves. She carried a bouquet of pink roses, showed a bouquet of pink sweetpeas. The flower girls, little Miss Mary Olive Partee, and Pollyanna Phillips, wore frocks of pink chiffon and they carried baskets filled with pastel-shaded flowers. The bride's cousin, Andrew Partee Jr., was ringbearer, and wore a white suit trimmed with Irish lace, and carried the ring in the heart of an Easter lily.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Grover Cleveland Partee, with whom she entered the church, and they met the bridegroom and his best man, Russell Allen, of St. Augustine, Fla., at the altar. The bride, a beautiful brunet, wore an exquisite wedding gown of pink chiffon velvet. It was fashioned along princess lines, and introduced a scalloped yoke, and the gown was finished at the waistline with a graceful bow of pink velvet. The skirt fitted her slender figure closely, and she wore a pink velvet hat trimmed with two flat bows, and her slippers were of pink velvet. Long white kid gloves, and a bouquet of orchids and valley lilies completed her effective costume. A real lace handkerchief, the gift of her aunt, Mrs. M. D. White, was carried by the bride.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. Parrish and his bride left for their wedding trip to Nashville, Tenn., and Helena, Ark., and afterward they will go to St. Augustine, Fla., to establish their future residence. The bride traveled in an ensemble of wintergreen wool trimmed with dyed squirrel and worn with brown accessories.

Out-of-Town Guests. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Wolfe, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Parrish and Russell Allen, of St. Augustine; Mrs. Fred Wolfe, of Gainesville, Fla.; Mrs. W. C. Park, of Augusta, Ga.; and Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Partee, of Social Circle, Ga.

B.W.M.U. Groups Stress the Need Of Personal Service

Greater personal service for the month of November was the chief endeavor of all young women's auxiliaries of the B. W. M. U. of Atlanta.

Good reports were given during roll call of the meeting of Y. W. A. counselors, held at Rich's recently, when Miss Vera Atkins presided. Gifts of money, clothing and baskets of food, for both the home and foreign interests, were the main items reported, and the fund of over $60 collected through the auxiliaries of the city for the purpose of aiding in establishing preaching points in parts of Brazil, where no gospel services have ever been held, was received.

Mrs. D. H. Davis, chairman; Mrs. H. R. O'Quinn and Miss Sara Snow were appointed as a committee to select a suitable slogan for the city association, one which may be a challenge to Y. W. A. girls. Each auxiliary will submit a suggestion to this committee. It was suggested that posters, encouraging the aims and activities of Y. W. A. be placed in the local church as a means of inspiration, 1933.

especially to the unenlisted young ladies of the church.

Counselors were requested to begin stressing the importance of the annual mission study course, which will be held in the spring. The selection of the faculty will be completed soon, and other plans are being formulated to have this training school, recorded as one of the most outstanding achievements in the Y. W. AROUND LOCAL CONTRACT TABLES

by Whitner Cary

The two big stories in Atlanta bridge circles are the change of management of the Cavendish Club and the master's tournament. Let us consider each in turn.

On Friday of this week the management of the Cavendish Club changes from Jack Byrley to Mrs. George Black and Mrs. Humphrey Vagor. No better team could be found to entrust the destinies of this bridge sanctuary than Mrs. Black and Mrs. Vagor.

Both very fine players, both with an extensive circle of friends and both possessors of that indefinable quality known as charm, they take hold of the Cavendish with every sign pointing to success.

Those that know them realize that under their efficient management the Cavendish is going to blossom forth and take its place among the leading bridge clubs of the country. Both tireless workers and knowing well the bridge needs of this city, I look for Mrs. Vagor and Mrs. Black to initiate features in bridge competition that will make the Cavendish the last word in bridge circles.

While no special formal opening will take place, the regular Friday evening tournament, which has always been a part of the Cavendish schedule, will usher in the new management.

Another contest which the new management intends to foster is a very strong team-of-four play. This is a style of play that, while very popular, has been overlooked to a great extent in Atlanta. The new management of the Cavendish intends to organize the stronger players in the club into representative teams and at frequent intervals hold club tournaments. Naturally the strongest teams will be selected to represent the club in many interclub matches during the coming winter.

Another innovation that the new management will likely stage is individual tournaments. The popularity that has attended the master's tournament now in progress shows that this style of play is here to stay. These individual tournaments will be restricted to members of the club. The regular Friday evening tournament will continue to be open to all bridge players of the city, whether members or not.

It is also planned to stage an afternoon tournament at least once a week for more experienced players. This is bound to be popular, as there are a great many bridge players in this city who would like to play in a league and yet who are afraid that their game is not quite good enough to venture into one of the big tournaments.

Turning from the Cavendish, we find that at least 25 of our good players are interested in the preliminary round of the master's held last Saturday and Monday. Play over the 96-board route of the main event begins Friday evening at the Atlanta Bridge Club.

And why could the 25 not be excited? For at the end of the tournament, the player having the highest score is going to get a free trip to St. Petersburg, Fla., to compete for six days in the first individual contract championship of the country. No wonder, with the stake at hand, that the players were so careful of their performance in the qualifying round. You can bet that when the main session gets under way they are going to play with even more care.

As mentioned before, the main tournament is divided into two sessions of 24 boards each. These sessions are on Friday evening, Saturday afternoon, Saturday evening and Sunday morning. Monday evening 24 boards are played at each session there will be no less than 96 boards played during the tournament.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

BY ELY CULBERTSON,

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

The Reaction to the New Laws

As I predicted, when the new international code of laws went into effect three followed, as the night the day, an epidemic of Grand Slam bids. Under the old code of Contract, a Grand Slam was rarely bid, except upon a laydown hand, and after then the more timid players refused to bid it. So rare were biddable Grand Slams that I considered it unnecessary to lay down any rules for bidding them in "Contract Bridge Blue Book," as the added premium for Grand Slams, bid and made, under the old laws, was not sufficient to justify the risk of losing a certain Small Slam in reaching for what might be, after all, only a will-o'-the-wisp. However, the international law-makers have changed all this.

Frequently, the course of history has been changed by international statements through the writing in of an unconsidered section in the laws. The same thing might happen to Bridge players with the vast increase in the premiums for Grand Slams, bid and made, vulnerable and not vulnerable. Nowadays a player stands to win 2,250 points if he bids and makes a vulnerable Grand Slam, as compared with 750 points, the premium for a vulnerable Small Slam. If he is not vulnerable, he receives 1,500 points against 500 points for the Small Slam, and it is my observation and that of others that in consequence of this new legislation, the bidding of Grand Slams has increased 1,000 per cent. In other words, there are now 10 Grand Slams bid, where, before the adoption of the new laws, there was only one or more.

Let no one make the mistake of imagining that, because the premium for Grand Slams is greater and there are more bids, all of them, by any means, are made. Human nature remains the same. Avarice exerts its potent influence, and many a player reaches out for a Grand Slam and fails to realize it in the play. The increase in the premium for the Grand Slam does not justify the taking of risks in making it. It used to be a rule that the only time a Grand Slam should be bid was when the cards could be spread after the Opening lead, and the tricks claimed, but now a Grand Slam is not a bad gamble if it depends on the single element of a successful finesse or a favorable break in a suit. Players should loosen up their bidding just slightly because of the greater premium given for the making of a Slam.

ing the tournament which are enough to make it a very fair test.

The movement in the main tournament is the same as in the preliminary rounds save that each player will play his allotted number of boards with each other player at one sitting. Each player has 24 other players to play with. That makes four boards he plays with each player. On Friday evening he will play with six partners and play four boards with each. He is then through with those partners and will never play with them in the tournament save as opponents.

At the end of each session of 24 boards it will be possible for all the players to know exactly how they stand. Unlike in the qualifying round they will be unable to tell their score at the completion of five boards.

The qualifying round which consisted of 50 boards saw few startling upsets. Most of those who were hoped to get into the main tournament came through with flying colors.

Mrs. Carl Vreeman, who is playing very good bridge at the present time, led Section 1 with a score of 150 points. Mrs. J. T. Daniel was second, with 148 1/2 points, and Henry Grady Sr., with 134 1/2 points, was third. Mrs. Vreeman also had the honor of leading both sections in high scoring as her 150 topped Mrs. Olive Sparks, 132 1/2; Henry Grady Sr., 128; Mrs. C. E. Hall Jr., 125 1/2; A. B. Meredith, 124 1/2; William Meador, 120 1/2; Sidney Smith, 119 1/2.

Section 2—Mrs. Olive Sparks, 142; Whitner Cary, 135; E. B. Zachry, 132 1/2; Miss Peggy Porter, 131 1/2; Robert L. Porter, 131; Henry Grady Sr., 129 1/2; Mrs. James Garner, 128 1/2; S. B. Fishburne, 128 1/2; Mrs. B. C. Dickenson, 127; D. T. Martin, 126 1/2; J. T. Daniel, 125 1/2; Dr. Charles Hall Jr., 121 1/2; Mrs. Claude Williamson, 121 1/2; As seen, Dr. Hall and Mrs. Williamson tied for the last qualifying place, instead of having to decide by flipping a coin, which one would get in by both got in when Sidney Smith announced he would be unable to play.

So that is the list that on Friday evening will give battle for the biggest prize ever offered in Atlanta bridge circles. Just what will take to win is beyond me to figure. You will know that in many of the recent pair tournaments it took at least a 65 per cent game to top first place, sometimes even as high as a 70 per cent game. It would seem that in the individual tournament a much lower figure might win.

The week-end team-of-four tournament held at the Mayfair Club resulted in a very large result being turned in by the team composed of Mrs. Olive Sparks, Mrs. C. E. Williamson, Mrs. R. C. Hale and Sam Neuberger. Their 421 points, out of a possible 42, was too blistering a pace for the opposition and they won with plenty of margin. A tie for second place at 25 points, resulted between the outfit composed of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Ainslie, Mrs. Belle Lowder and Mrs. R. C. Dickenson and that consisting of Mr. J. T. Daniel, Fred Shaffer, Jack Oakhurst and Whitner Cary.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Harlan, with 70 1/2 points, took first place Tuesday evening in Mrs. Emma Daniels' tournament. Mrs. R. S. Crane and Mrs. M. C. Crane, with 64 points, were second and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Ainslie, with 62, were third.

The Reaction to the New Laws

As I predicted, when the new international code of laws went into effect three followed, as the night the day, an epidemic of Grand Slam bids. Under the old code of Contract, a Grand Slam was rarely bid, except upon a laydown hand, and after then the more timid players refused to bid it. So rare were biddable Grand Slams that I considered it unnecessary to lay down any rules for bidding them in "Contract Bridge Blue Book," as the added premium for Grand Slams, bid and made, under the old laws, was not sufficient to justify the risk of losing a certain Small Slam in reaching for what might be, after all, only a will-o'-the-wisp. However, the international law-makers have changed all this.

Frequently, the course of history has been changed by international statements through the writing in of an unconsidered section in the laws. The same thing might happen to Bridge players with the vast increase in the premiums for Grand Slams, bid and made, vulnerable and not vulnerable. Nowadays a player stands to win 2,250 points if he bids and makes a vulnerable Grand Slam, as compared with 750 points, the premium for a vulnerable Small Slam. If he is not vulnerable, he receives 1,500 points against 500 points for the Small Slam, and it is my observation and that of others that in consequence of this new legislation, the bidding of Grand Slams has increased 1,000 per cent. CURB SHARES GAIN

ACTIVE TRADING

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER.
NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The market today enjoyed its most active trading since November 11, approximately 290,000 shares changing hands, at a slightly higher price level, than 180,000 yesterday.

Public utilities were buoyed by the report in last week's electric production which, while small, was greater than recorded in the corresponding months of 1929.

Electric Bond & Share and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore gained a point.

The oil and mining shares were under moderate pressure. Gulf, Humana and Standard of Kentucky yielded fractionally while Standard of Indiana gained a shade. Newmont was a substantial fraction. Roanoke rallied fractionally.
